Edward Waters College (EWC) acknowledges the concerns that students, parents, and other College stakeholders may have regarding the status of the Coronavirus and any potential risks that it may pose for our academic community. Currently, EWC does not have any students, faculty or staff in China, Iran, Italy, Japan, South Korea, or any other locations where cases of the virus have been reported.

In addition, the College has been monitoring the progression of the outbreak through information provided by daily communications issued by the Overseas Security Advisory Council (OSAC), the U.S. Department of State, and the Centers for Disease Control (CDC). The health and safety of EWC's students, faculty, and staff are of utmost importance to the College.

We will continue to monitor any developments related to this pandemic and remain proactive in our response. If exposed to the virus, we are asking those individuals to self-isolate as recommended by the aforementioned sources. We will continue to keep our EWC community informed through email and our website.
